DETAILED ACTION

1. The following application, filed 26 September 2001 has been reviewed. Original claims 1-15 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

With respect to claims 1-5, the Examiner finds these claims to lack a tangible result. In order to be a tangible result, the process must produce a real-world result. The final step of independent claim 1 states, "determining a revenue value to be afforded to said booking party." This step does not actually output the determination to a user or record it in a database, and therefore there is no tangible result. Nor does claim 1 produce a real-world result in the reservation, because the established reservation is neither outputted to a user nor stored in a database.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-4, 6-9 and 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Burko U.S. Publication 2002/0156672 A1.

Regarding independent claims 1, 6 and 11, Burko discloses a method for establishing a reservation for a service or product, said service or product being provided by a provider having a management system, said management system providing a repository for customer profiles, available inventory and reservations, said method comprising the steps of:

directing a booking party to a set of web objects according to the type of booking party (page 4, paragraph 0047 and 0050 and page 5, paragraph 0054);

collecting a reservation data set from said booking party including itinerary and preferences for a customer (page 5, paragraph 0056);

establishing a reservation in said management system according to said reservation data set if a matching service or product is available, said reservation being associated with a customer profile (page 5, paragraph 0057-0058); and determining a revenue value to be afforded to said booking party (page 5, paragraph 0058).

Claims 2, 7 and 12, wherein said step of directing a booking party to a set of web objects comprises a step selected from the group of providing a plurality of Universal Resource Locators, web addresses, and subdomains, each being tailored to the needs of a booking party type (page 4, paragraph 0047).

Art Unit: 3691

Claims 3, 8 and 13, further comprising a step of allowing said booking party to create a new customer profile (page 4, paragraph 0048).

Claims 4, 9 and 14, further comprising the step of allowing said booking party to modify an existing customer profile (page 4, paragraph 0050-0051).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 3691

8. Claims 5, 10 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burko U.S. Publication 2002/0156672 A1 in view of Schiff et al. (hereinafter Schiff) U.S. Publication 2002/0082877 A1.

Regarding claims 5, 10 and 15, Burko teaches a system and method for providing scheduling of services by a professional such as doctors appointments (page 2, paragraph 0025 and page 5, paragraph 0054). Burko fails to teach associating the reservation with a customer profile comprises a step selected from the group of establishing a hotel reservation, reserving a travel ticket, booking a rental car, reserving a golf tee time, reserving an entertainment ticket, and reserving products due for future availability. Schiff teaches a method for matching customer preferences with available options in which a customer books a travel ticket on a cruise ship (Abstract). Schiff teaches that the customer may use a computer and based on customer information books a ticket on a cruise line for the customer (page 5, paragraph 0055 and page 6, paragraph 0067). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the Applicant's invention to modify the scheduling teachings of Burko to include the booking of travel tickets as taught by Schiff because the travel tickets are a service that requires scheduling. The scheduling of both the doctors appointment and travel ticket requires checking customer data such as a preference time/date for the ticket or appointment as well as availability offered by the provider (e.g. cruise ship or doctor).
